BRITISH ADVANCE 3 MILES INTO GERMANY

The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

THE CAPTURE OF WARSAW is one of the most important victories of the world war, for this ancient cross-roads of eastern Europe has been the anchor of Hitler's Vistula line—last powerful defensive position between the Russians and the Reich.

The whole 250-mile Vistula front has collapsed and the Germans are reeling back. This means, barring miracles, that the Germans must run for their defenses on the Oder river inside their own frontier. Such a wholesale retreat is one of the most dangerous operations of war, and disaster hovers over it like a curse.

That's the military aspect, but this triumph of Red arms also is momentous politically. It's as full of high explosive as a block-buster, and as such will have to be handled by the Big Three—Mosses, Roosevelt, Stalin and Churchill—at their forthcoming conference.

Actually the eviction of the Hitlerites from Warsaw may easily mean that the Polish boundary dispute, which long has had much of the world by the ears, has been settled automatically. It probably means that the exile Polish government in London has lost its fight, and that the Russian-sponsored provisional Polish government of Lublin will become the permanent government of a Poland remodeled in accordance with Moscow's wishes.

Thus, while America and Britain still recognize the Polish government in London, they likely will be presented with a fait accompli when the Big Three meet. That will mean that they adapt themselves to the situation gracefully, or else one of the most dangerous questions the three Allies have had to meet. Dangerous questions are to be avoided if possible.

Vast reaches of Poland are being freed rapidly by the Red armies comprising 2,000,000 men who, Moscow announced, are bent on the utter destruction of the German forces. As this is written the on-rushing Moscovites are close to the Russian frontier of Germany. Fear reigns in the fatherland.

I think we may assume that as fast as in invaders are pushed back, the Lublin provisional government will take over the liberated territory and make it part of the new Poland. The signs are that by the time the Russians have cleared Poland of the invaders, the country will have been thoroughly organized under the Lublin government, composed of Leftists who have Moscow's blessings. There will be no further grounds for argument about boundaries or political complexion. Under these circumstances it will be strange if a plebiscite doesn't support the government in power.

The Lublin government, seeking friendships, is expected shortly to remove one of the sore spots of eastern Europe by promising to return the rich coal district of Teschen to little Czechoslovakia. Polish troops occupied Teschen just after Munich in 1938, when Czechoslovakia was trembling under the brutality of Hitler. The Poles gave Praha a 24-hour ultimatum to surrender Teschen, and the Czechoslovakians had no alternative but to submit.

LAST MONTH BLOODIEST OF WAR FOR U. S.

American Losses On Western Front 74,788, Is Official Report

(By Associated Press)

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, Jan. 18.—American losses on the Western front totaled 74,788 killed, wounded and missing in December, the bloodiest month of all for United States armies, it was disclosed today.

The Americans during December bore a heavy cost into the Aachen gap of the Siegfried line and then withstood the German offensive in the Belgian bulge.

The toll is exclusive of Air Force personnel. It was well above the casualties of the first month of invasion when Americans stormed the Normandy beaches in June. Exact casualties for June were not available here, but in the six weeks up to July 20, the date of the St. Lo break-through, they totaled 60,000.

The War department in Washington announced that total American casualties since D-day to Jan. 1 on the Western front were 332,912. Of these 54,563 were killed, 232,372 wounded and 45,678 missing.

The Sixth army group, commanded by Lt. Gen. Jacob L. Devers and including the American 7th and the French First armies, announced its casualties from D-day to Jan. 1 totaled 72,227, while 164,457 opposing Germans were killed or captured.

U. S. Seventh army casualties totaled 40,683, of which 6,742 were killed, 30,308 wounded and 3,633 missing.

The two armies reported taking 158,301 prisoners and burying 6,156 German dead.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—American army casualties of 74,788 in December alone on the Western front have brought the total from D-day in June to Jan. 1 to 332,912.

The 74,788 figure for December included 10,419 killed, 43,554 wounded and 20,815 missing. Most of the missing in December, Stimson said, are probably German prisoners.

December casualties, the secretary told his news conference, covered not only the first two weeks of the German counter-offensive in the Ardennes but also the Allied offensive on the Western front during the early part of December.

German losses on the Western front during the month, Stimson said, are estimated at between 110,000 and 130,000, including 50,000 taken prisoner.

Losses of the American army's 10th infantry division, partly overrun in the initial stages of the German counter-offensive, were placed at 8,865, including 416 killed, 1,246 wounded and 7,001 missing.

Stimson said the division had made "a gallant stand" in the Ardennes at the center of the German drive.

He added that many of those listed as missing from the division are presumed to be prisoners of war.

Total casualties for the Army since Pearl Harbor are 580,495 on the basis of compilations in Washington through Jan. 7.

The Army's total together with the Navy's latest figure of 83,364 placed the overall casualties for the armed forces since Pearl Harbor at 663,859, an increase of 17,479 since last week's report. Of the increase, the Army accounted for 16,144 and the Navy for 1,335.

Ohio Legislature Considers $5,000,000 More For Schools

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Jan. 18.—A proposed increase of $5,000,000 a year in the state's contribution to public schools, which already receive more than $50,000,000 annually in subsidies, was before the Ohio legislature today for consideration.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche has recommended that more money be provided for them, but has set no figure.

The $5,000,000 increase is set forth in a bill introduced by Rep. Walter Tarr of Cincinnati, a Republican, and would go to elementary schools and kindergartens. The amount which the state contributes for elementary education, on a basis of per pupil per school year, would be raised from 17 cents to 21½ cents for the teachers, and from 25 cents to 31½ cents for operating costs. The kindergartens would receive an increase from 8 cents to 10 cents for teachers and from 12 cents to 15 for operations.

Before the legislature adjourned Monday, Rep. Jack Easton (R, Lake) introduced a bill providing for a maximum fine of $5,000 and three years' imprisonment for employees of public utilities who engage in strikes.

The constitutionality of his proposed law was questioned in some quarters.

Rep. William J. Hart (D, Cuyahoga) offered a bill to suspend all liquor local option elections for the duration of the war and six months thereafter, while Rep. W. S. Paxson produced a measure to exempt Christian Science practitioners from state regulations for the practice of medicine.

In the Senate, Raymond E. Hildebrand (R, Lucas) proposed that the state public works department establish, operate and lease refueling stations on Lake Erie and survey shore erosion.

The senate confirmed the appointment of Robert M. Sohngen of Hamilton as state liquor director and reappointed Sen. Frank S. Day (D, Cuyahoga) to the liquor control and political divisions committees. Day had resigned from the committees in protest against the senate's failure to assign him to the commerce and labor committee.

"As we approach the hard core of enemy resistance, our fleet will encounter increasing numbers of land-based planes, mines and masses of men."

"We do not propose to reduce the tempo during 1945; to do otherwise would play into the hands of the Japanese by giving them an intermission in which to regroup their forces. The Navy favors a policy of intensified offense. We intend to pursue that policy to the limit of the facilities available to us."

Admiral King, a native of Lorain, O., declared that in less than four years "we have built a bridge of ships across 3,000 miles of the Atlantic and 7,000 miles of the Pacific to the Philippines and Marianas."

"The in-fighting is just beginning," he said. "Casualties in men and material must be expected to increase as the fighting becomes more intense." He added: "No enemy in the world can deprive us of ultimate victory."

(By Associated Press)

Reporting an increase in scout memberships of approximately 20 per cent during 1944, the Columbus County Boy Scout executive board met last night at the Ohio Edison building on S. Elsworth ave. for their first meeting of the new year.

H. S. Gallimore of East Liverpool, membership chairman, reported that 1,247 boys were in the county organization and 306 adults contributed regularly of their time to the program. There are 30 troops, nine Cub packs and two service units in the county.

Gallimore discussed plans for further improvement of the camp at the McKinley reservation near Lisbon. Suggested improvements, expected to be carried out in the near future, included:

Major McGuire, With 30 Jap Planes To His Credit, Killed

(By Associated Press)

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Jan. 18.—Death in air battle in the Philippines killed Major Thomas B. McGuire, Jr., had of coming home soon after nearly two years in the Southwest Pacific.

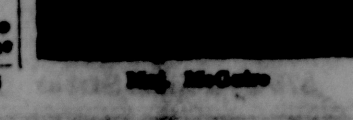

In a letter to the wife of the nation's leading active air ace, Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney, commanding Allied Air Forces in the Pacific, disclosed McGuire had been shot down and killed Jan. 7. Mrs. McGuire has received no official War department notification.

A graduate of Randolph and Kelly flying fields, McGuire received his wings in 1942. He served in the Aleutians six months without seeing an enemy plane. But in his tour of duty in the Pacific he bagged 38 Japanese planes.

Mrs. McGuire said yesterday her husband had written her thought to be home by Jan. 1, but when he couldn't write he hoped it wouldn't be long.

In a P-51 named "Paddy," so christened because of a nickname, he was killed.

HINT SOVIETS NOW FIGHTING ON NAZI SOIL

Red Army, Paced by Super Tanks, Rolls On Toward Berlin

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, Jan. 18.—Russian troops, rolling forward with massive momentum in Marshal Stalin's greatest winter offensive, may already have crossed the German frontier into the coal and industrial region of Silesia.

One Moscow dispatch said it was believed Germany was fighting on her homeland soil on both the east and west fronts.

Three great Russian armies, 2-3,000,000 strong on a 250-mile front, were fast liberating all Poland after the capture of Warsaw, Radom, and Czesochowa, and the Germans were reported falling back to their next natural line of defense, the Oder river.

"The liberation of Warsaw announces the forthcoming fall of Berlin," proclaimed the Moscow press. Berlin, admitting confusion in the face of the smashing onslaught, said Tomaszow, 30 miles southeast of Lodz, Poland's greatest industrial city, had been evacuated, and said Breslau, Germany's chief industrial city in Silesia, was "directly in the danger zone."

Krakow Captured

The Lublin radio said Krakow, city of Poland's ancient kings, had been captured.

The forces of Marshal Gregory Zhukov, which took Warsaw, and of Marshal Ivan Konev were converging on Lodz from the east and south.

Zhukov, after taking Zyrardow, 26 miles west of Warsaw, struck southward toward Lodz, 46 miles away. Zhukov was 288 miles from Berlin.

Konev's first Ukrainian army, which captured Czesochowa, the Catholic center known as the "Polish Lourdes," struck for the German frontier 15 miles distant.

Konev's army was threatening to cut off a cluster of German cities in Silesia—Outhen, Hindenburg and Gleiwitz—from the main support of German armies to the north.

Breslau, on the Oder river, is 90 miles directly west of Czesochowa. At the Oder the Russian armies would be standing on the line which Lublin Poles have claimed for their post-war frontier with Germany.

Military superlatives fell short of describing the Soviet blows. Moscow said they were aimed at nothing short of total destruction of German armies in the east, and Berlin admitted it appeared almost impossible to check them short of the German frontier.

"Such immense masses of material employed by the Russians, never before experienced before," the broadcast stated.

Martin Hallenleben, chief military commentator for the German DNB agency, said in an early broadcast the Germans had "no chance to meet the Russian superiority frontally" and hinted Nazi strategy in Poland would be to avoid being split up at all costs with a husbanding of reserves for counter measures against dangers looming ahead.

RED CROSS GOAL WILL BE $32,300

(By Associated Press)

Salem's 1945 Red Cross War fund quota is $32,300, organization officials announced today.

Slightly higher than the 1944 figure, it is the result of increased needs for servicemen in the two fighting areas—the European and the Pacific—officials said.

A chairman and committee for the campaign, slated to begin late in February, will be announced later. A temporary arrangements committee will meet soon at the Belden hotel in Canton with national officials.

The quota sets aside 42.4 per cent, or $13,700, of the amount for local use while the balance, $18,600, will go into the national fund.

SALEM GOLF CLUB ELECTS DIRECTORS

Five directors were elected at the annual meeting of the Salem Golf club last night at the club house on the Labron road.

Arch Harwood, R. K. Yates and L. H. Colley were re-elected, and Twing Seeds and E. M. Stephenson were chosen as new directors.

The board of directors, comprised of 15 members, will meet the second Tuesday in February to elect officers. B. S. McCulloch recently was named to the board to fill the vacancy caused by the death of George Egan.

Reports submitted at the meeting last night showed that the club has more than 150 members. Chairman Harwood of the house committee reported that a well would have to be drilled this year to provide drinking water as the springs are nearly dry.

Yank Troops In New Gains Toward Reich

(By The Associated Press)

PARIS, Jan. 18.—British troops advanced almost three miles into Germany today to near Hongen, center of a Reich district jutting into the Dutch panhandle.

United States Third army troops stormed across the Sure river near Diekirch, 15 miles north of Luxembourg city, in a new assault upon the base of the flattened Ardennes salient.

American First army troops picked up yardage leading to St. Vith, last Belgian road center in German hands. They were closer than four miles and gaining along the main road northwest of the town in the Reich sector.

The British offensive from the Maas (Meuse) river toward the Roer overran at least five more villages and was widened to a 28-mile curving front from Gellenkirchen to Roermond.

YANKS HIT MANILA ROAD AT 2 POINTS

(By Associated Press)

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Luzon, Jan. 18.—Gains right and left of the expanded Lingayen gulf beachhead were reported by Gen. Douglas MacArthur today as his main spearheads pointing toward Manila approached the important city of Tarlac, fighting nothing more worse than mosquitoes and heat.

On the right the Yanks advanced 17 miles up the Bolinao peninsula to capture Bolinao, at the northern end, after a short skirmish with an enemy rear guard.

The western part of the drive extended the Lingayen gulf beachhead to approximately 60 miles.

On the left flank the Sixth army cut the main Luzon-Bagui highway in two places and sent patrols into Posorubio, around which the most stubborn resistance of the invasion has been encountered. The Americans have five wedges along this highway.

One Yank column was last reported only a half mile from Rosario. Junctions at a fork two miles beyond the town would put the two Yank columns on a mountain road leading to Baguio, summer capital of the Philippines, 16 miles away.

In this area the Japanese are making a determined effort to fight. Cutting of the Luzon-Bagui highway at Posorubio and three miles north a Bababon virtually seal off whatever enemy forces were along the northeastern coast of Lingayen gulf.

Front dispatches from this sector said the Japanese were firmly entrenched in cave and hilltop positions, and digging them out would be as difficult as it was on Peleliu in the Palau.

MacArthur's communique today failed to mention progress at the deepest point of penetration.

An American force turned south at captured Alaminos and headed for Daosol bay just south of the Bolinao peninsula.

Senate's Advice

Despite semi-official word from the chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, Sen. Connally of Texas, that its advice was not wanted, senators clearly intend to exercise their constitutional function in the determination of foreign policy.

Article II, Section 2, of the Constitution, says the President "shall have power by and with the advice and consent of the senate to make treaties, provided two-thirds of the senators present concur." When a senator speaks on foreign policy, he is advising. When he votes on an issue of foreign policy he is giving or withholding consent.

This has been one of the most difficult of all executive-legislative relations to hold in balance. A large part of President Wilson's peacemaking difficulties grew out of senate resentment against an attitude which seemed to imply that only senatorial consent, not advice, was sought. The best omen for better relations between the executive and senate in peacemaking after this war has been created by former Secretary of State Hull's efforts to give the senate a sense of participation in the conduct of foreign affairs.

The issue still has not been resolved; Sen. Connally's hint that senate speech-making on foreign relations was not in order raised no doubt of the administration's attitude. But it did not stop the speech-making, which to date has signified that the senate is in a mood to approve any international arrangement which gives the United States a voice in making the settlements it will be expected to guarantee, but will remain critical of any arrangement which gives this nation responsibility without authority.

Gov. Lausche's Credo

Ohioans are finding reassurance in Gov. Lausche's first message to the general assembly that their new governor has the potentialities of a statesman. It will be Ohio's good fortune if his potentialities are realized during the next two years.

His credo of government is sound, and he states it clearly. It is that government, drawing its sovereignty from the people, should exercise its sovereignty in behalf of all the people. To this Gov. Lausche adds strong convictions about financial prudence and harmonious relations between the legislative and executive officers of the government.

Of particular importance, in the light of what sometimes has seemed to be deliberate abandonment of the tradition that good government grows from the bottom, not from the top, is the governor's reminder to the assembly that matters of purely local concern should be dealt with locally, instead of by state authority.

The prospect is good for a continuation of financial prudence in management of state affairs and a careful distinction between powers that clearly belong to the executive and those which belong to the legislature. Gov. Lausche is regarded by many members of his own party, as well as by many independents and members of the opposition as a political comer who will try to prove himself worthy of their confidence during his first term in the governorship. His first message to the assembly—his introduction to the state in his executive function—is a credit to his political character.

Supplies To China

Successful carrier plane raids on the South China coast, coupled with reassuring reports about the campaign to open the new Lado road link to the Chinese interior, are a more important development in the war, as far as the United States is concerned, than the current news from Europe.

This country's manpower problems are directing attention again to the vast potentialities of China, a potential fourth among the great powers fighting the war. With Russia eliminated as a factor in the Pacific and the British war effort properly discounted, the showdown with Japan may find Chinese manpower and United States production in belligerent combination.

The obvious strategy is to effect a junction of forces fighting from the interior toward the coast with fresh forces moving inward from the coast; the first bombings of coastal targets reveal great possibilities. While they may be more important at this stage of the Pacific war for their bearing on the campaign in the Philippines than any future campaign on the Asiatic mainland, they also show how the ultimate liberation of China can be accomplished. Possession of one port like Hongkong would bring more of the potentialities of China to realization than everything that has been done so far to supply China with weapons to free itself from invasion.

THE lunar transits, sustained by special mutual aspects of over-riding importance, accent the unusual, irregular, quixotic or fantastic as having continued emphasis on all the experience, adventures and circumstances of the day. Under such peculiar undercurrents and subtle urges of the emotions, feelings and mentality, it is recommended that much, serious reflection be brought to bear on any serious enterprises or projects, keep to the straightforward techniques and tactics, how to the "straight and narrow," and some unforeseen advantages and progress may be expected. Beware jealous, subtle enemies, and dubious associations and be guided by wise heads.

Those whose birthday it is may experience a strange year, with curious or unconventional adventures, in which runaway emotions, impulses or weird ideas or plans may incite enmity, jealousy or some sort of queer contacts or experiences. Submit every opportunity for success, happiness and sound fortunes to much scrutiny, before making any important decisions, affecting the personal, professional or affectional life, accepting advice and direction from older and wiser heads—not excited brains or turbulent hearts.

A child born on this day will possess original, ingenious and unique talents or skills, with creative ideas or fantastic urges, which should be submitted to more balanced judgments.

Polling The Pollsters

(By James Thrasher)

We hope that some day there will be a congressional investigating committee to investigate the congressional passion for investigating committees. (Try reading it again, a little more slowly.) Too often it has seemed that investigation has been an end in itself, rather than something aimed toward eventual legislation or reform.

And so we have hoped. And that hope was revived with the publication of a House Campaign Expenditures Investigating committee report on Dr. George Gallup's poll. Why the investigation was ever undertaken is something of a mystery, but here in brief are its conclusions:

1. The Gallup organization sincerely tried to use scientific methods in forecasting the results of the presidential election.

2. Better sampling methods are available, and Dr. Gallup should have used them.

3. The Gallup samples must either have been inaccurate or obtained by improper interviewing procedure, for the poll underestimated the Democratic vote in about two-thirds of the states.

4. Dr. Gallup ought to publish "raw" figures as well as "adjusted" figures, which take account of some imponderables that don't show on an adding machine. Thus the public could draw its own conclusions.

The only explanation for the investigation we can see is that congress is going to start a free business-consultant service. That must be it.

The Gallup poll is a private business specializing in the collection and marketing of samples of public opinion. Its only market is newspapers. It does not undertake any surveys for individuals, private firms or political groups. It has no government contracts.

Dr. Gallup operates in competition with four other leading poll takers. All five firms did well this year, artistically and, we hope, financially. They did well because none of them was off as much as 2 per cent in forecasting the actual results of civilian balloting for president.

So it is apparent that, for these five firms, accuracy is not a matter of congressional compulsion. Accuracy is their bread and butter. Them as guesses closest gets the most business. And if the house committee's sub-committee of expert government poll takers was able to offer Dr. Gallup any free tips on increased efficiency and accuracy, we presume that he was duly grateful.

But if congress is going to do that for Dr. Gallup why shouldn't it do as much for his competitors, or for any other strictly private, nonwar business?

Well, anyway, we hope the boys had a good time investigating. Just tack the bill on our taxes, chums.

Again German Field Marshal Karl Von Rundstedt is withdrawing according to plans. The Allies' plans!

How An Unborn Baby Grows

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
DR. GEORGE W. CORNER is one of the most distinguished of American anatomists. Strictly speaking, he is an embryologist, which means he studies the anatomy of animals as they unfold before they are born. In a recent book, "Ourselves Unborn" (Yale University Press), he presents in a series of lectures for laymen some of the problems of his science.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Many of animals as they unfold before they are born. In a recent book, "Ourselves Unborn" (Yale University Press), he presents in a series of lectures for laymen some of the problems of his science.

Each of us begins as a single cell which weighs about fifteen ten-millionths of a gram. At birth, we weigh seven-pound babies, we weigh 3,250 gram. But what a set of multiplications and windings and turnings occur before that blessed event!

On the whole it turns out surprisingly, not to say astonishingly, well. Considering everything that could go wrong, the number of mishaps in the very low decimal figures. And certainly Dr. Corner would agree that taking thought does not influence the event, and knowledge about it does not make a great deal of difference in the outcome. But neither does knowledge hurt. This book should be of immense interest both to the expectant mother, and let us include that neglected and shadowy figure, the expectant father.

Most of what we know on the subject has been learned from the study of the lower animals, but such information as we have received from time to time about man indicates that there is no real difference in the fundamental processes.

The youngest human embryo ever studied was obtained by a Boston surgeon, Dr. John Rock.

In 1942. It was believed to be about 7 1/2 days old. The difficulties in the way of getting such early ones are obvious. Then here is the embryologist's real pal. He can get an egg from under her before she has emitted her first cackle and watch the embryo grow cell by cell, the heart appears as a pinpoint of alternate white and red—and a lovely sight it is too—until, finally, a full-formed chick covered with down and legs and everything emerges.

One of the vivid passages of Dr. Corner's book is his description of the placenta and the interchange of chemical and nutritional elements between mother and developing child. The placenta is part of the child attached to the mother's uterus into which it sends little fingers called villi consisting of an ingoing and outgoing blood vessel.

Dr. Corner illustrates the properties of these villi by taking a sausage casing and filling it with some indelible ink and then hanging it in a beaker of water. None of the ink ever left the sausage casing, but if he added salt solution, it immediately got out into the surrounding water. The villi are selective in what they let pass in the same way.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Belgium, occupying an area of 11,800 square miles, is about the size of Maryland.

CINCINNATI — Mrs. Prudence Mercurio, better known as "Mary," believes her 50 years of selling farm produce at the same Court st. market stand qualifies her as some sort of a psychologist. Senate's Advice

Despite semi-official word from the chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, Sen. Connally of Texas, that its advice was not wanted, senators clearly intend to exercise their constitutional function in the determination of foreign policy.

Article II, Section 2, of the Constitution, says the President "shall have power by and with the advice and consent of the senate to make treaties, provided two-thirds of the senators present concur." When a senator speaks on foreign policy, he is advising. When he votes on an issue of foreign policy he is giving or withholding consent.

This has been one of the most difficult of all executive-legislative relations to hold in balance. A large part of President Wilson's peacemaking difficulties grew out of senate resentment against an attitude which seemed to imply that only senatorial consent, not advice, was sought. The best omen for better relations between the executive and senate in peacemaking after this war has been created by former Secretary of State Hull's efforts to give the senate a sense of participation in the conduct of foreign affairs.

The issue still has not been resolved; Sen. Connally's hint that senate speech-making on foreign relations was not in order raised new doubt of the administration's attitude. But it did not stop the speech-making, which to date has signified that the senate is in a mood to approve any international arrangement which gives the United States a voice in making the settlements it will be expected to guarantee, but will remain critical of any arrangement which gives this nation responsibility without authority.

Gov. Lausche's Credo

Ohioans are finding reassurance in Gov. Lausche's first message to the general assembly that their new governor has the potentialities of a statesman. It will be Ohio's good fortune if his potentialities are realized during the next two years.

His credo of government is sound, and he states it clearly. It is that government, drawing its sovereignty from the people, should exercise its sovereignty in behalf of all the people. To this Gov. Lausche adds strong convictions about financial prudence and harmonious relations between the legislative and executive officers of the government.

Of particular importance, in the light of what sometimes has seemed to be deliberate abandonment of the tradition that good government grows from the bottom, not from the top, is the governor's reminder to the assembly that matters of purely local concern should be dealt with locally, instead of by state authority.

The prospect is good for a continuation of financial prudence in management of state affairs and a careful distinction between powers that clearly belong to the executive and those which belong to the legislature. Gov. Lausche is regarded by many members of his own party, as well as by many independents and members of the opposition as a political comer who will try to prove himself worthy of their confidence during his first term in the governorship. His first message to the assembly—his introduction to the state in his executive function—is a credit to his political character.

Supplies To China

Successful carrier plane raids on the South China coast, coupled with reassuring reports about the campaign to open the new Leda road link to the Chinese interior, are a more important development in the war, as far as the United States is concerned, than the current news from Europe.

This country's manpower problems are directing attention again to the vast potentialities of China, a potential fourth among the great powers fighting the war. With Russia eliminated as a factor in the Pacific and the British war effort properly discounted, the showdown with Japan may find Chinese manpower and United States production in belligerent combination.

The obvious strategy is to effect a junction of forces fighting from the interior toward the coast with fresh forces moving inward from the coast; the first bombings of coastal targets reveal great possibilities. While they may be more important at this stage of the Pacific war for their bearing on the campaign in the Philippines than any future campaign on the Asiatic mainland, they also show how the ultimate liberation of China can be accomplished. Possession of one port like Hongkong would bring more of the potentialities of China to realization than everything that has been done so far to supply China with weapons to free itself from invasion.

For Friday, January 19.

THE lunar transit, sustained by special mutual aspects of over-riding importance, accent the unusual, irregular, quixotic or fantastic as having continued emphasis on all the experience, adventures and circumstances of the day. Under such peculiar undercurrents and subtle urges of the emotions, feelings and mentality, it is recommended that much serious reflection be brought to bear on any serious enterprises or projects, keep to the straightforward techniques and tactics, how to the "straight and narrow," and some unforeseen advantages and progress may be expected. Beware jealousy, subtle enmities, and dubious associations and be guided by wise heads.

Those whose birthday it is may experience a strange year, with curious or unconventional adventures, in which runaway emotions, impulses or weird ideas or plans may incite enmity, jealousy or some sort of queer contacts or experiences. Submit every opportunity for success, happiness and sound fortunes to much scrutiny, before making any important decisions, affecting the personal, professional or affectional life, accepting advice and direction from older and wiser heads—not excited brains or turbulent hearts.

A child born on this day will possess original, ingenious and unique talents or skills, with creative ideas or fantastic urges, which should be submitted to more balanced judgments.

Polling The Pollsters

(By James Thrasher)

We hope that some day there will be a congressional investigating committee to investigate the congressional passion for investigating committees. (Try reading it again, a little more slowly.) Too often it has seemed that investigation has been an end in itself, rather than something aimed toward eventual legislation or reform.

And so we have hoped. And that hope was revived with the publication of a House Campaign Expenditures Investigating committee report on Dr. George Gallup's poll. Why the investigation was ever undertaken is something of a mystery, but here in brief are its conclusions:

1. The Gallup organization sincerely tried to use scientific methods in forecasting the results of the presidential election.

2. Better sampling methods are available, and Dr. Gallup should have used them.

3. The Gallup samples must either have been inaccurate or obtained by improper interviewing procedure, for the poll underestimated the Democratic vote in about two-thirds of the states.

4. Dr. Gallup ought to publish "raw" figures as well as "adjusted" figures, which take account of some imponderables that don't show on an adding machine. Thus the public could draw its own conclusions.

The only explanation for the investigation we can see is that congress is going to start a free business-consultant service. That must be it.

The Gallup poll is a private business specializing in the collection and marketing of samples of public opinion. Its only market is newspapers. It does not undertake any surveys for individuals, private firms or political groups. It has no government contracts.

Dr. Gallup operates in competition with four other leading poll takers. All five firms did well this year, artistically and, we hope, financially. They did well because none of them was off as much as 2 per cent in forecasting the actual results of civilian balloting for president.

And if the house committee's sub-committee of expert government poll takers was able to offer Dr. Gallup any free tips on increased efficiency and accuracy, we presume that he was duly grateful.

But if congress is going to do that for Dr. Gallup why shouldn't it do as much for his competitors, or for any other strictly private, nonwar business?

Well, anyway, we hope the boys had a good time investigating. Just tack the bill on our taxes, chums.

I don't know why such a work was never done before. When I think of the thousands of women now sitting in rocking chairs wondering what under the shining stars is going on inside them and all they get is to be told not to worry, to hemstitch 200 diapers, drink plenty of milk and think beautiful thoughts, I cannot see why some enterprising author did not long ago think of such a presentation as Dr. Corner's.

News and Views, Briefly On What's Going On In Capital

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—A work or be drafted bill may be before the house of representatives by the middle of next week.

The house military affairs committee plans to move quickly to implement President Roosevelt's new plan for national service legislation. Chairman May (D., Ky.) says it hopes to reach agreement on the new manpower proposal by night-fall and to place it before the house for consideration by the middle of next week.

The legislation endorsed by the President, as it now stands, provides for the induction into Army-Navy work units of men between 18 and 45 who refuse to follow the directions of their draft board and accept and retain jobs in war industry. A committee majority favors instead a stiff fine and imprisonment as a penalty.

The committee must decide such other matters as what age groups should be affected and what union rights should be protected or waived in the proposed shifting of draft-deferred men from non-essential to essential jobs.

Congressional circles are juggling new rumors that Henry Wallace will be named to the commerce secretaryship held by Jesse Jones. Disturbed, Jones' friends are seeking assurance he would be retained as boss of federal lending and financing agencies if replaced as secretary of commerce by the retiring vice president.

The senate, believes Sen. George (D., Ga.), could ratify within four to six weeks a treaty committing the United States to participate in a world security organization. Sen. George thinks "we may expect a very early consideration of the security program" after the Roosevelt-Stalin-Churchill conference. Submission of such a treaty, he adds, would presuppose that questions left pending after the Dumbarton Oaks meeting can be adjusted at the Big Three conclave.

Without fanfare the War Manpower commission has put into effect in labor shortage areas its program for release of workers in less essential firms to war plants. The WMC memorandum, originally scheduled for announcement today, says "the program for forced release of less essential workers must be applied" where other measures "have not met or will not meet the manpower requirements of urgent war production."

Farm leaders are warning of a possible breakdown in food production this year unless labor-saving machinery to replace agricultural workers drafted for the armed services is forthcoming.

Rep. Clare Boothe Luce (R., Connecticut) favors a fixed time limit on the time a soldier is required to serve under fire without relief. Such a move, she says, would help alleviate bitterness which she reports is prevalent as the result of long stays in the trenches. As example is the 34th division which she says has had over 400 actual combat days in Italy.

Pvt. Jim D. Ross of Devon, Conn., had gone with other members of his patrol 1,000 yards across enemy territory to contact a friendly unit on the other side. Soldiers there told him if he came back later they would have some new comic strip books for him.

Ross returned to his outfit and, when he could, set out on a return trip with a buddy. Once his buddy thought he'd seen some Germans. "Damn the Jerries," Ross growled. "Let's get to my comic books."

"He was really sweating those books out that night," his sergeant, Floyd R. Swartz of Detroit, Mich., said. "And he came back with them too."

Holy smoke! exclaimed Pfc. George D. Daniels of St. Marys, Pa. "Hundreds of German paratroopers have just landed beyond our lines!"

Sgt. Pack Bedre of Palestine, Tex., looked through a mist across No Man's Land and saw numerous white shapes moving toward American lines.

Bedre alerted the company. Three mortars dropped 150 shells among the oncoming group which scattered and ran. Three patrols inched forward cautiously and came back to report with disgusted looks: "Fifty-five dead sheep!"

A little brown wire-haired terrier, which for more than six months has gone through every battle with one second infantry division company, wears a Purple Heart on her uniform.

Her sweater already more the stripes of a sergeant and a combat infantryman's badge awarded her after the men argued:

"She's seen more combat and is a truer 'dogface' than any of us."

Recently she caught some mortar fragments while making her daily check of the men's foxholes—part of her duties as top kick. The medics put a splint on her leg, gave her a Purple Heart for her wound, and the following day she limped around to the foxholes on three legs.

"That pooch has been bucking for a Bronze star for a long time," said her bunkmate, Pfc. William Dooley of Galveston, Tex. "But she's gotta do more than bark at Jerries to win that. Maybe if she bit a few..."

Barricaded in a window behind boxes of ten-in-one rations after he had had a tank and a jeep shot out from under him, Staff Sgt.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—A work or be drafted bill may be before the house of representatives by the middle of next week.

The house military affairs committee plans to move quickly to implement President Roosevelt's new plan for national service legislation. Chairman May (D., Ky.) says it hopes to reach agreement on the new manpower proposal by nightfall and to place it before the house for consideration by the middle of next week.

The legislation endorsed by the President, as it now stands, provides for the induction into Army-Navy work units of men between 18 and 45 who refuse to follow the directions of their draft board and accept and retain jobs in war industry. A committee majority favors instead a stiff fine and imprisonment as a penalty.

The committee must decide such other matters as what age groups should be affected and what union rights should be protected or waived in the proposed shifting of draft-deferred men from non-essential to essential jobs.

Congressional circles are juggling new rumors that Henry Wallace will be named to the commerce secretaryship held by Jesse Jones. Disturbed, Jones' friends are seeking assurance he would be retained as boss of federal lending and financing agencies if replaced as secretary of commerce by the retiring vice president.

The senate believes Sen. George (D., Ga.), could ratify within four to six weeks a treaty committing the United States to participate in a world security organization. Sen. George thinks "we may expect a very early consideration of the security program" after the Roosevelt-Stalin-Churchill conference. Submission of such a treaty, he adds, would presuppose that questions left pending after the Dumbarton Oaks meeting can be adjusted at the Big Three conclave.

Without fanfare the War Manpower commission has put into effect in labor shortage areas its program for release of workers in less essential firms to war plants. The WMC memorandum, originally scheduled for announcement today, says the program for forced release of less essential workers must be applied "where other measures have not met or will not meet the manpower requirements of urgent war production."

Farm leaders are warning of a possible breakdown in food production this year unless labor-saving machinery to replace agricultural workers drafted for the armed services is forthcoming.

Rep. Clare Boothe Luce (R., Connecticut) favors a fixed time limit on the time a soldier is required to serve under fire without relief. Such a move, she says, would help relieve the bitterness which she reports is prevalent as the result of long stays in the trenches. As example is the 34th division which she says has had over 400 actual combat days in Italy.

LEAVES FROM A WAR CORRESPONDENT'S NOTEBOOK

by Hal Boyle

WITH THE U. S. FIRST ARMY IN BELGIUM — One frontline doughboy crawled 2,000 yards in a round trip through German lines to get some new books on the adventures of his favorite cartoon heroes.

Pvt. Jim D. Ross of Devon, Conn., had gone with other members of his patrol 1,000 yards across enemy territory to contact a friendly unit on the other side. Soldiers there told him if he came back later they would have some new comic strip books for him.

Ross returned to his outfit and, when he could, set out on a return trip with a buddy. Once his buddy thought he'd seen some Germans.

"Damn the Jerries," Ross growled. "Let's get to my comic books."

"He was really sweating those books out that night," his sergeant, Floyd R. Swartz of Detroit, Mich., said. "And he came back with them too."

Holy smoke! exclaimed Pfc. George D. Daniels of St. Marys, Pa. "Hundreds of German paratroopers have just landed beyond our lines!"

Sgt. Pack Bedre of Palestine, Tex., looked through a mist across No. Man's Land and saw numerous white shapes moving toward American lines.

Bedre alerted the company. Three mortars dropped 150 shells among the oncoming group which scattered and ran. Three patrols inched forward cautiously and came back to report with disgusted looks: "Fifty-five dead sheep!"

Nurses' Association Can Meet Military Quota In Half of '45

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Jan. 18.—The Ohio State Nurses association expects to meet its quota of 839 nurses for Army and Navy service the first six months of 1945 without stripping hospitals, public health and industrial nursing services, Mrs. Elizabeth P. August, secretary of the association, said today.

Mrs. August returned yesterday from a meeting in New York where representatives of nurses' associations of 36 states studied the proposal to draft nurses for military service.

"The profession as a whole does not favor the draft," Mrs. August said, "but nurses are not slackers."

Approximately 2,719 Ohio nurses are classified as available, she said.

Mrs. August explained that Ohio failed to meet its quota last December because, although 1,300 young women had taken state board examinations they had not received their grades and did not know if they were qualified for registration.

One third of the approximately 1,200 nurses who received the registered nurse designation have expressed desire to join the Army or Navy, she said.

The increased number of nurses entering military service will not jeopardize home front services if "better use is made of nurses remaining in our communities," Mrs. August said.

Approximately 6,500 Ohio students are in nurse's training and approximately 3,000 Ohio nurses are in military service, Mrs. August said.

Twenty per cent of nurses who apply for military service are rejected for physical defects, Mrs. August reported, adding that the nurses' association long has urged the military services to admit nurses to limited service.

She explained that the armed services reject nurses who are over or under weight. The Navy rejects women who wear glasses or dentures or are over 35 years old.

The navy will not accept married nurses, she said, although Vice Admiral Ross T. McIntyre, navy surgeon-general, recently announced that the Navy now will permit nurses to marry while in service.

3 Servicemen Say Col. Roosevelt's Dog "Bumped" Them Off Plane at Memphis

(By Associated Press)

ANTIOCH, Calif., Jan. 18. — A Navy gunner called home by his father's death and an Army sergeant hurrying to his sick wife told newsmen they were put off an Army transport plane at Memphis, Tenn., last week because a huge dog consigned to Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt, actress-wife of the President's son, had a higher priority.

The wife of a sailor said her husband wrote he couldn't board the plane at Dallas, Texas, for the same reason.

Mrs. Roosevelt, interviewed yesterday aboard a train at Albuquerque, N. M., said she had received "Blaze," a 130-pound bull mastiff at Hollywood from her husband, but I "assure you my dog travels as freight and awaits his turn."

A War department spokesman said three servicemen were put off a plane at Memphis Jan. 11 to lighten the load while a dog continued its journey by air. The dog was consigned from Washington.

In Antioch, the Navy gunner, Leon LeRoy, told newsmen he boarded the plane at Newark, N.J., after learning of his father's death and had a "C" priority.

He said high priority matter was put aboard at Memphis, requiring that some weight must be left behind, that he and two other servicemen had to get off because the crated dog was rated "A."

Last night at Riverside, Calif., T/Sgt. Dave Ake, veteran of the China-Burma-India war, said he was "bumped off" the plane at Memphis.

He said a crated dog occupied "almost all of four seats" and a flight clerk told him it was consigned to Mrs. Roosevelt.

"Like the other two servicemen, I was pretty sore to think that we got bumped off a plane on account of a dog, particularly since I was on such a short leave and was enroute here to see my sick wife," he said.

At Granite City, Ill., Mrs. Ola Vee Nix said her husband, Maurice Nix, a navy carpenter's mate, who had been home to visit their four ill children, wrote her from San Francisco his trip back was delayed because he was unable to board a plane at Dallas. He said he had a "D" priority and that the plane carried a dog, with an "A" rating, which belonged to Col. Roosevelt.

In New York, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President commented:

"I can't imagine any plane dispatcher who would be as stupid as that. No army cargo plane would put a seaman off for that reason."

SEAGOING DOG HAS HAPPY LANDING
NEW YORK — Blondie, canine mascot of Ambrose lightship—the vessel that keeps station outside of New York harbor, touched land for the first time in her life when the lightship put into port for overhaul and repainting. She was born at sea a year ago and as far as her shipmates know she had no conception of land or things that man construct on land until the ship came into port.

NEW YORK CITY FARMS GIVE MEN TO SERVICE
NEW YORK — Farmers of New York City will soon be doing their bit in the U. S. armed forces following an order calling 74 of them up for pre-induction examinations. 3 Servicemen Say Col. Roosevelt's Dog "Bumped" Them Off Plane at Memphis

(By Associated Press)

ANTIOCH, Calif., Jan. 18. — A Navy gunner called home by his father's death and an Army sergeant hurrying to his sick wife told newsmen they were put off an Army transport plane at Memphis, Tenn., last week because a huge dog consigned to Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt, actress-wife of the President's son, had a higher priority.

The wife of a sailor said her husband wrote he couldn't board the plane at Dallas, Texas, for the same reason.

Mrs. Roosevelt, interviewed yesterday aboard a train at Albuquerque, N. M., said she had received "Blaze," a 130-pound bull mastiff at Hollywood from her husband but I "assure you my dog travels as freight and awaits his turn."

A War department spokesman said three servicemen were put off a plane at Memphis Jan. 11 to lighten the load while a dog continued its journey by air. The dog was consigned from Washington.

In Antioch, the Navy gunner, Leon LeRoy, told newsmen he boarded the plane at Newark, N.J., after learning of his father's death and had a "C" priority.

He said high priority matter was put aboard at Memphis, requiring that some weight must be left behind, that he and two other servicemen had to get off because the crated dog was rated "A."

Last night at Riverside, Calif., T/Sgt. Dave Ake, veteran of the China-Burma-India war, said he was "bumped off" the plane at Memphis.

He said a crated dog occupied "almost all of four seats" and a flight clerk told him it was consigned to Mrs. Roosevelt.

"Like the other two servicemen, I was pretty sore to think that we got bumped off a plane on account of a dog, particularly since I was on such a short leave and was enroute here to see my sick wife," he said.

At Granite City, Ill., Mrs. Ola Vee Nix said her husband, Maurice Nix, a navy carpenter's mate, who had been home to visit their four ill children, wrote her from San Francisco his trip back was delayed because he was unable to board a plane at Dallas. He said he had a "D" priority and that the plane carried a dog, with an "A" rating, which belonged to Col. Roosevelt.

In New York, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President commented: "I can't imagine any plane dispatcher who would be as stupid as that. No army cargo plane would put a seaman off for that reason."

YANKS LAUDED BY CHURCHILL

Says They Stopped Von Rundstedt; Cites New Soviet Offensive

LONDON, Jan. 18.—Prime Minister Churchill in a war review which ranged to all the fighting theaters of the world told the house of commons today the present Russian drive was part of a coordinated victory plan to keep all fronts "in constant flame until the final climax."

He gave American fighting men complete credit for stopping the "costly sortie" by Field Marshal Von Rundstedt in the west and he again endorsed the Allied demand for the unconditional surrender of Germany and Japan.

Churchill said he and Marshal Stalin had reached an agreement on dealing with the Balkans to prevent future wars, but that this agreement did not divide Europe into spheres of influence after the war.

He challenged the house to another vote of confidence on his policy in liberated lands, declaring Britain would pursue a war-time policy of interference in middle Europe so long as he held office.

Says F. D. R. Informed
President Roosevelt had been kept informed of the exchanges and correspondence with Stalin, he added.

Observing that "Marshal Stalin is very punctual" in keeping his obligations to the Allies, Churchill said he would not attempt to "set limits to the superb and titanic events" unfolding on the Eastern front.

"I can only say," he said, "that it is certain that the whole Eastern and Western fronts and on the long front in Italy, where 27 German divisions are still held by no more than their number, will be kept henceforth in constant flame until the final climax is reached."

Declaring Von Rundstedt's winter offensive was more likely to shorten the war than lengthen it, he said the Americans "have lost 50 to 80 men for every one of ours" in stopping it.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's "recovery of the Philippines," the prime minister continued, was a "fearful warning to the Japanese of their impending defeat and ruin."

"Unconditional surrender was proclaimed by President Roosevelt at Casablanca. I endorsed it there and then on behalf of this country. I am sure it was right at the time it was used. I am clear that nothing should induce us to abandon the principle of unconditional surrender or to enter into any form of negotiation with Germany or Japan under whatever guise until the act of unconditional surrender has been formally executed."

Apparently in answer to criticism that Germany's will to resist was being strengthened, he declared he and President Roosevelt had repeatedly made clear that unconditional surrender "in no way relieves the victorious powers of their obligations to humanity."

No Territorial Ambitions
Military victory may yet be distant, said Churchill. "It is certainly costly but it is no longer in doubt." Churchill brought the house to its feet cheering as he asserted:

"We seek no territory, we covet no oil fields, we demand no bases for the forces of the air or of the sea."

"We do not set ourselves up in rivalry or bigness or might with any other community in the world. We have given and we shall continue to give everything we have. We ask nothing in return except that consideration and respect which is our due and if that were denied us we shall still have a good conscience."

"Let none either in our country or commonwealth or in the outside world misname us, traduce our methods. Our actions are no doubt subject to human error but our actions in small things and great are disinterested, lofty and true. I repulse those calumnies, wherever they come from, that Britain and the British empire are selfish, power greedy and land

SUBS BAG 24 MORE JAPANESE VESSELS

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The sinking of 24 additional enemy vessels by American submarines in the Pacific and Far Eastern waters was announced by the Navy today. The bag included four combat ships.

The new toll claimed by the far-ranging submarines included a destroyer, three escort vessels, a large cargo transport, two large tankers, a medium cargo transport, eight medium cargo vessels, two medium tankers, a medium transport, four small cargo vessels and a small tanker.

The announcement raised to 958 the total of Japanese vessels which have fallen victim to submarine warfare. The total included 103 Japanese combat vessels sunk, and 855 non-combatant ships.

The total of Japanese destroyers sunk was raised to 45.

Other Japanese combatant ship losses to submarines have totaled: Cruisers 13; tenders 3; and others, 40. Previous Navy announcements fixed the tonnage of non-combatant enemy vessels sunk by submarines at more than 3,500,000 tons.

Today's announcement increased the total of Japanese fleet tankers lost to 94, obviously seriously impairing operations of the Japanese fleet.

THE THEATER

Dane Clark, Eleanor Parker and Dennis Morgan are a happy threesome in this scene from their latest picture, "The Very Thought of You."

Dennis Morgan, Eleanor Parker and Dane Clark have the principal roles in "The Very Thought of You," story of wartime romance, showing at the State Friday and Saturday.

Faye Emerson, Beulah Bondi, Henry Travers, William Prince and Andrea King are in the supporting cast. Miss Parker is the girl who turned in an outstanding performance in "Between Two Worlds."

Dennis Morgan is seen as the young soldier home from long service in the Aleutians who meets and falls in love with "Janet." Returning home, they are married but her family's objection to the match nearly wreck their brief married life. When he is sent overseas again she returns to her family to await the birth of their son. The baby helps to reunite the two young people and to solve some of the family problems.

Dane Clark is seen as the GI pal of the soldier bridegroom and Faye Emerson as the bride's girl friend. Henry Travers turns in a fine performance as Pop, easy going head of the family in name only. Beulah Bondi does equally well with the role of the neurotic mother.

At the Grand tonight, Friday and Saturday are: "Crazy Knights," a comedy featuring Billy Gilbert, Shemp Howard and Maxie Rosenbloom; and a Wild Bill Elliott western, "Marshal of Reno."

President Roosevelt had been kept informed of the exchanges and correspondence with Stalin, he added.

Observing that "Marshal Stalin is very punctual" in keeping his obligations to the Allies, Churchill said he would not attempt to "set limits to the superb and titanic events" unfolding on the Eastern front.

"I can only say," he said, "that it is certain that the whole Eastern and Western fronts and on the long front in Italy, where 27 German divisions are still held by no more than their number, will be kept henceforth in constant flame until the final climax is reached."

Declaring Von Rundstedt's winter offensive was more likely to shorten the war than lengthen it, he said the Americans "have lost 90 to 80 men for every one of ours" in stopping it.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's "recovery of the Philippines," the prime minister continued, was a "fearful warning to the Japanese of their impending defeat and ruin."

"Unconditional surrender was proclaimed by President Roosevelt at Casablanca. I endorsed it there and then on behalf of this country. I am sure it was right at the time it was used. I am clear that nothing should induce us to abandon the principle of unconditional surrender or to enter into any form of negotiation with Germany or Japan under whatever guise until the act of unconditional surrender has been formally executed."

Apparently in answer to criticism that Germany's will to resist was being strengthened, he declared he and President Roosevelt had repeatedly made clear that unconditional surrender "in no way relieves the victorious powers of their obligations to humanity."

No Territorial Ambitions

Military victory may yet be distant, said Churchill. "It is certainly costly but it is no longer in doubt." Churchill brought the house to its feet cheering as he asserted:

"We seek no territory, we covet no oil fields, we demand no bases for the forces of the air or of the sea. We do not set ourselves up in rivalry or bigness or might with any other community in the world. We have given and we shall continue to give everything we have. We ask nothing in return except that consideration and respect which is our due and if that were denied us we shall still have a good conscience."

"Let none either in our country or commonwealth or in the outside world misname us, traduce our methods. Our actions are no doubt subject to human error but our actions in small things and great are disinterested, lofty and true. I repulse those calumnies, wherever they come from, that Britain and the British empire are selfish, power greedy and land

SUBS BAG 24 MORE
JAPANESE VESSELS

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The sinking of 24 additional enemy vessels by American submarines in the Pacific and Far Eastern waters was announced by the Navy today. The bag included four combat ships.

The new toll claimed by the far-ranging submarines included a destroyer, three escort vessels, a large cargo transport, two large tankers, a medium cargo transport, eight medium cargo vessels, two medium tankers, a medium transport, four small cargo vessels and a small tanker.

The announcement raised to 958 the total of Japanese vessels which have fallen victim to submarine warfare. The total included 103 Japanese combat vessels sunk, and 855 non-combatant ships.

The total of Japanese destroyers sunk was raised to 45. Other Japanese combatant ship losses to submarines have totaled: Cruisers 13; tenders 3; and others, 40. Previous Navy announcements fixed the tonnage of non-combatant enemy vessels sunk by submarines at more than 3,500,000 tons.

Today's announcement increased the total of Japanese fleet tankers lost to 94, obviously seriously impairing operations of the Japanese fleet.

Athletics Meet Taylorcraft Cagers Here Tomorrow Night

LOCALS SEEKING FIRST WIN AGAIN

Facing 3rd Alliance Team In Three Weeks; Coach Miller May Play

Still looking for their first victory, the Salem Athletics will meet another strong Alliance cage outfit—the Taylorcraft Aviation Corp. team—at the Memorial building tomorrow night.

Slated to take the floor at 8 p. m. the Scott Chisholm-sponsored local team is out to mark up the first win in three tries. Previously they were beaten 34-30 by an Alliance Transue squad and 50-45 by an Alliance Babcock outfit.

Unable to hit their stride until the final periods in both games, the team showed plenty of power but waited a hair too long before beginning high-scoring tactics.

Fans who witnessed the last contest got a real treat when Salem broke out in a rash of baskets that nearly upset the opponents.

The Alliance squad coming here tomorrow is packed with some top-notch material. Winners in three of their four league games this season, the Crafters are a tall, fast-breaking outfit with several former college stars and some Stark county scholastic talent included on their roster.

The game is one of a series scheduled between Salem and the teams from the Alliance Industrial league. Other contests are being contemplated with the Alliance Machine, American Steel Foundry, and Porcelain Products teams.

Manager Al Catlos rehearsed his team last night at the Memorial building and reports they are in better shape and ready to do justice to another chance for the first win. Coach Bob Miller, Salem High school coach and former Ohio State star, may play with the squad tomorrow.

North Carolina Has Record Duck Season

By NEA Service

Poplar Branch, N. C.—A record-breaking season as far as the guide industry is concerned closes at North Carolina's famous waterfowl feeding grounds, Jan. 20, although spotty conditions were reported.

A lot of hunters managed to find shells and get to the duck and goose country somehow.

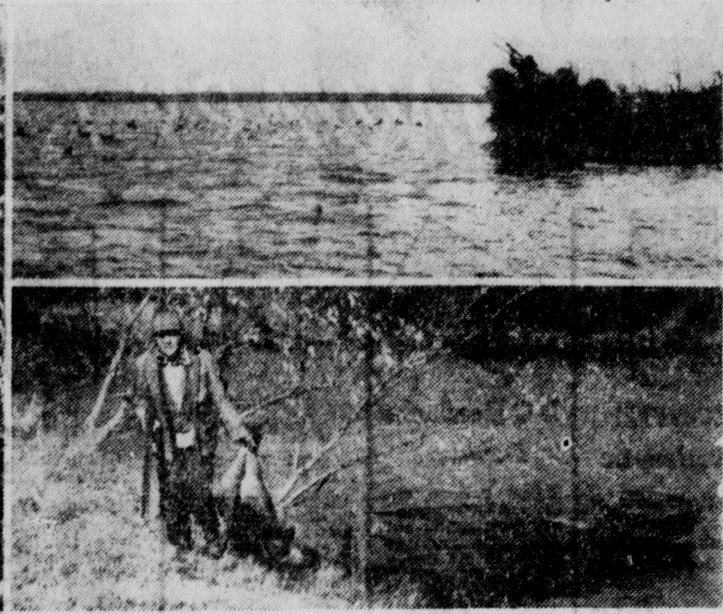

At famed Lake Mattamuskeet, 10,000-acre meteor-cratered refuge favored by big honkers, there has been the biggest season the guides and boarding houses ever saw.

Blinds were booked for as far as 30 days ahead. It was a poor day indeed when a hunter did not get his two-geese limit.

Hundreds unable to get into blinds hunted with farmers in fields.

It was estimated there were 50,000 geese on the lake, but ducks were scarce.

It was the same in the Currituck country, farther north, where ducks concentrate and the limit is 10.

There were not as many birds as predicted, but hunters with carefully rationed shells overflew Moccasin, Poplar Branch, Bertha, Cock, and other sound-side villages.

Many of the visitors were service men from nearby military installations.

DRAFTING OF TWO SPORTS MEN NOT INDICATION, CRY

Acceptance of Willie Pep And Buff Donelli May Be Good Ruler

By BUS HAM

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Acceptance of two prominent sports figures for service does not necessarily set a precedent which will be followed in reviewing other professional athletes.

It may indicate which way Army doctors will lean in examining these men for induction.

War department sources made that comment today when asked about Aldo "Buff" Donelli, football coach, and Willie Pep, fighter, who have passed physical examinations within the past few days.

Donelli, who will be 38 years old in July, is coach of the Cleveland Rams of the National Professional Football league. He will be taken into the Navy within two weeks.

Pep, world featherweight title claimant, has a medical discharge from the Navy. The Army has accepted him for general service, which can mean combat duty.

First Big Names

Donelli and Pep are the first big-name athletic figures to be accepted since War Mobilization Director Byrnes called for a re-examination of professionals.

Acceptance of Donelli and Pep is the "old story of somebody with a name going into service," a War department source said. "The same thing might have happened to hundreds of Joe Doakes without anybody paying any attention to it."

There is the possibility, it was pointed out, that conditions which kept a man out of service or caused him to be discharged, have been cleared up.

In sports circles, the acceptance of Donelli and Pep was taken as a tip to other professionals that a high percentage of them will be taken.

Athletics Meet Taylorcraft Cagers Here Tomorrow Night

LOCALS SEEKING FIRST WIN AGAIN

Facing 3rd Alliance Team In Three Weeks; Coach Miller May Play

Still looking for their first victory, the Salem Athletics will meet another strong Alliance cage outfit—the Taylorcraft Aviation Corp. team—at the Memorial building tomorrow night.

Slated to take the floor at 8 p. m., the Scott Chisholm-sponsored local team is out to mark up the first win in three tries. Previously they were beaten 34-30 by an Alliance Transue squad and 50-45 by an Alliance Babcock outfit.

The game is one of a series scheduled between Salem and the teams from the Alliance Industrial league. Other contests are being contemplated with the Alliance Machine, American Steel Foundry, and Porcelain Products teams.

Manager Al Catlos rehearsed his team last night at the Memorial building and reports they are in better shape and ready to do justice to another chance for the first win. Coach Bob Miller, Salem high school coach and former Ohio State star, may play with the squad tomorrow.

Western Conference Cage Loop All Tied In Knots

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—The Western Conference basketball standings were, save for undefeated leading Iowa, deadlocked today.

Indiana's one-point victory over Purdue last night—51 to 50—put four clubs in a tie for fourth place, behind two teams tied for the runner-up spot, while in a dead heat for the bottom berths were Purdue and Minnesota.

The five-game program for the week-end promises to untangle the standings, with a possibility of a new leader to replace the Hawkeyes.

Iowa, with two league wins, moves to Ann Arbor to meet Michigan tomorrow night. The Wolverines will make their bid to improve their 500 rating on two wins, two losses, by setting the Hawks down with their first defeat.

The night's second game pits Northwestern against Illinois at Champaign. The Wildcats are tied with Ohio State for the runner-up position with two wins in three games, while the Illini are grouped with Wisconsin and Indiana at 500, each with one win and one loss.

Northwestern and Michigan play Saturday night. The Wildcats at Purdue, and the Wolverines at Ohio State. Northwestern, on a pair of wins and an Iowa defeat, could move into the lead in a third league encounter.

In non-conference games Saturday, the Chicago stadium clash between DePaul, beaten only by Illinois, and Hamilton university, defeated only by Valparaiso, shares the spotlight with the Great Lakes-Notre Dame battle. Earlier this season the Irish dropped a 59-58 decision to the Bluejackets, who hung up their 17th consecutive victory last night with a 57-24 win over Lawrence (Wis.) college. Tuesday night the Irish trimmed Marquette 79-56 at South Bend.

Also participating in the program were Gov. Frank J. Lausche and his predecessor, John W. Bricker, both of whom played baseball in their younger days.

Honor guests were Les Horvath, Ohio State's All-America halfback; Carroll Widdoes, his coach, and Bill Southworth, manager of the World's Champion St. Louis Cardinals.

The trio and Lew Byer, sports editor of the Columbus Citizen for 25 years, were presented plaques by Jimmy Conzieman, assistant to President Don Barnes of the St. Louis Browns. Joe Williams, New York columnist, was toastmaster.

Other sports writer guests included Orlo Robertson, general sports editor for the Associated Press; Fritz Howell of the New York Associated Press, former Ohio AP sports editor, and Bob French, sports editor of the Toledo Blade.

The guests represented 27 different types of sports.

SPORT CHATTER

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—There may be a great scarcity of "name" athletes for the winter track season.

If Gil Dodds sticks to his decision to retire, if Gunder Haegg fails to appear, which isn't unlikely, and if Don Burnham doesn't get far enough ahead of his medical studies to do some training.... But there won't be any shortage of names on the program....

The metropolitan indoor championships, opening the season Saturday, will have three national champions—Rudy Simms, Jim Rafferty and Owen Cassidy—and Tommy Quinn, former central collegiate champ now in the Navy at Bainbridge, Md....

The entries are just coming in from service men who can get furloughs.... The "Met" entries include Lloyd Henry Bourgeois, Jr., of New Orleans, whose father was a member of the 1928 Olympic team....

Ed Cosgrove, a Tufts college V-12 student who has entered the Millrose meet, won the distinguished flying cross in the battle of the Coral Sea.

THE SMART MOVE

Lefty Gomez tells this one on himself.... A few years ago Tony Lazzeri was in the middle of a hot felling streak and getting a lot of play in the newspapers.... In a tight spot in one game the ball came to Gomez and Lefty, ignoring Tony's frantic directions where to make the play, tossed the ball to Lazzeri....

When the shortstop protested later, Gomez replied, "I didn't know what to do with it, Tony, and I'd been reading all week that you're the smartest fielder in the world so I thought I'd let you do it."

SHORTS AND SHELLS

Wisconsin athletic authorities say there's nothing to these stories of football games with Yale and Penn state next fall.... Bobby Ruffin, the fighter who tried to become an actor, now has a crooner in tow. Bobby says his boy, Tommy Moran, is willing to meet Sinatra in a ton-sil contest any day.

Stays Home, Bags Deer

MOUNT WASHINGTON, N. H.—Twenty hunters returned empty-handed to Mrs. Mervin Whitbeck's home from where they started, only to learn that she had put aside household duties for a minute and shot a 130-pound deer from her kitchen door.

Toledo, Denison Win Cage Attempts

(By Associated Press)

The University of Toledo, Denison university and Cleveland Naval Training station won basketball games last week.

Toledo trounced Hillsdale (Mich.) college, 56 to 24; Denison edged Ohio Wesleyan, 58 to 55, and the Cleveland Sailors bested Kent State, 40 to 34, in an overtime contest.

The Rockets held a commanding lead all the way. Guard Louis Martin set the pace with 17 points as Toledo marked up its fifth win in seven games.

Denison led Ohio Wesleyan, 27 to 19, at the half and boasted a 15-point advantage early in the fourth period, when the Bishop began to click and outscored the eventual winners 11-1 in the final period. Forward Bill Pender of Ohio Wesleyan was top scorer with 29 points.

Kent State led the Naval Station boys, 21 to 14, at the half, but the Sailors made up the deficit in the second half which ended with the score tied at 34-34. Center Suedock of Kent State was high scorer with 14 points.

Of the 55 highest peaks in the United States, 42 are in Colorado.

CORPSES AT INDIAN STONES by Philip Wylie

SYNOPSIS

How would you like to have been christened Agamemnon? Telamachus Plumb and — though now a learned doctor and professor, age 34—to be called by many: "AG-GIE"? Even the Greeks might have no classic word for your answer. And to be under the personal social supervision of Aunt Sarah, jolly, sophisticated, and gossip? Well, Aggie and Auntie are now in the ancient and expensive family limousine with Windie, the chauffeur, and Chille, the maid, motoring north towards the cool mountains from the summer heat of New York City.

CHAPTER TWO

For half an hour, neither Aggie nor his aunt said a syllable. He smoked his pipe. At length, she spoke. "I've got a sore throat!"

Aggie brightened. "I'll tell Windie to turn around!"

"You'll do nothing of the sort! I've spent ten years and more trying to get you out of that mildewed museum for a summer with me. I know perfectly well you'll escape if we stop for a flat tire. I'd go on through to Indian Stones if I had double pneumonia!"

The professor's luminous glance contained affection and humor—but he was careful not to let his aunt see that. "Anyway, I'm not giving up the museum. That's for winter. Classes and the lab. I'm giving up a trip with Grubb—he's the Britisher—to Patagonia."

"Grubb," said Sarah. "What a marvelous name for an archaeologist! You know, you need a vacation! You're starving for one. You're seedy. I'll bet you haven't played—or relaxed—or taken a girl to a dance—for a decade."

Aggie folded his hands into a "church and steeple." He rested an elbow on the arm-perch in the car and put the points of his forefingers under his chin. "I'm glad you brought that up," he said musingly. "Ever since I got that mandatory letter, I thought you had my mating possibilities in mind. The last of the Plumbs! I suppose you have something in mind for a female in mind for me?"

"I have," Sarah answered serenely. Aggie was startled. "You can't be serious? I was joking!"

The ponderous woman nodded. "You're getting on, Agamemnon. Thirty-six, isn't it?"

"Thirty-four."

"Yes. Exactly. You're becoming quite desiccated. Quite. You're too old to be running off to all corners of the world digging up bones. To me, there's nothing exciting about a defunct tiger's teeth. You really must stay at home, long enough, to raise a family. You need a wife."

"Granting I'm going to raise a family, yes. A wife, under such circumstances, would be the usual thing."

"I'm not fooling, Aggie."

"Neither am I!" Professor Plumb's tone was remarkably firm. "Look, Sarah. I am spending this summer with you because I love and adore you. Nevertheless, I deplore every idea that runs through your pretty gray head. It is a beehive of meddlesome inspiration. I am a bachelor. I was born to be one. I will stay with you only on condition that you do not force upon me a single member of the other sex. Your matrimonial-agency reputation is appalling! You should have been a fight promoter. And you never married yourself, so you're a doddering hypocrite. Who is the girl?"

"Beth Calder," said Sarah.

"Calder," Aggie repeated. "Out of the frying pan into the Calderon. I Calder but she didn't come. No good. Look. Whoever this Beth is, I will have none of her. In my mind's eye, I can see her. A woman with aniline-auburn hair. A golf- and tennis-playing woman, with the voice of a macaw and a capacity for cocktails that would humiliate a steel salesman. A woman whose chief aim is to get into the lobby of a theater on opening night in a dress that will make several cut-throats hang themselves. Phooie. Faugh!"

"You wouldn't remember her," Sarah continued, unabashed. "You were — let me see — twelve?—the last time you went to Indian Stones. Beth is about—twenty-six — now. That would make her four years old at the time."

"I remember the name of Calder vaguely," he said. "And with some sort of shady connotation. What, I forget. As for a female Calder child, my association with infants at the age of twelve having been limited, I do not remember her at all. Thank the Lord."

"Jim Calder — Beth's father—ran away with George Davis's wife. There was a frightful scandal. And they didn't divorce and remarry. Mrs. Davis apparently found that Jim was no bargain—even when compared to cold-blooded George — so she simply settled in California. Left Calder, and also her husband and her daughter, to shift for themselves."

"Delightful," said Aggie. "And you want me to marry into this shambles?"

"Beth is a charming young woman."

"So was Luchezia Borgia," Aggie replied. "I am going to read and rest and meditate this summer. Sarah, I intend to write a monograph on the subject of preglacial animal migrations over the Aleutian Islands. I may do a paper for a friend of mine about the egg-laying monotremes. Otherwise, I Aggie's response was in Latin. From the sound of it, Sarah was glad that he did not trouble himself to translate.

CONCRETE DAIRY IMPROVEMENTS

can help America increase food production

The Department of Agriculture has urged greatly increased milk production to meet the needs of the United Nations for dry milk, butter, cheese. Concrete improvements—such as a new milk house, cooling tank, dairy barn floor, granary, manure pit or storage cellar—will help many farmers do a bigger production job. Concrete improvements are fire-safe, sanitary, cost little to build, last for generations. Concrete farm jobs require a minimum of critical wear materials. If you need help, get in touch with your concrete contractor, ready-mixed concrete producer or building material dealer.
